Mission

Partnering with communities to offer hope and healing through support and education

Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre Inc. (SHCC) provides support and services to individuals residing in the Interlake-Eastern region of Manitoba who have experienced acts of sexual violence, as well as to secondary victims of sexual violence. We recognize that acts of sexual violence are motivated by power inequalities, therefore our work also addresses social and systemic root causes of gender-based violence to create greater change to public ideology, policies, politics, and procedures.

Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre is honoured to work on Treaty 1,3 and 5 and the homeland of the Métis Nation. We acknowledge the relationships that were formed in these territories through Treaties and Ceremony was intended to be one of respect, reciprocity, and renewal.

We acknowledge the Anishinaabe, Cree, Oji-Cree, Dakota, Dene and Métis nations who are the original stewards of the lands we have the honour of working on.

In our work, Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre centers the historical and contemporary harms experienced by First Nations, Inuit, and Métis people of Canada. We acknowledge the harms and mistakes of the past, and we dedicate ourselves to moving forward in partnership with Indigenous communities in a spirit of reconciliation and collaboration.

Message from the Board Chair

I have had the privilege of serving as Chair of the Board, the past two years, witnessing the organization's remarkable growth and evolution. This year has been no exception, marked by significant developments that strengthen our mission to support survivors of sexualized violence and providing critical workshops in schools to help build and promote healthy relationships.

One of the highlights this year was the successful launch of Project SMOKE (Sexual Misconduct Outreach, Knowledge & Empowerment). This initiative specifically supports individuals affiliated with the Canadian Armed Forces across Manitoba who have been impacted by sexualized violence, offering targeted outreach and empowerment resources.

We are also proud to have regained funding for SARAH Counselling through Federal Justice. This achievement followed a vigorous media campaign and sustained advocacy efforts to ensure this essential service remains available in our region. In support of this, we have expanded our team by hiring a multi-lingual SARAH counsellor who provides services in Ukrainian, Russian, Polish, and English, broadening our accessibility to diverse communities. Furthermore, to increase access to counselling services across the Interlake-Eastern region, we have secured additional spaces to hold ongoing sessions in Eriksdale, Ashern, Beausejour, Pinawa, Scantebury, Gimli, and Selkirk. This expansion reflects our commitment to meeting survivors where they are, ensuring timely and localized support.

This vital work would not be possible without the unwavering dedication of our Board members, who generously volunteer their time to provide governance, oversight, and strategic direction in partnership with our Executive Director, Gillian Schofield. Their commitment ensures that Survivors Hope remains focused and effective in fulfilling its mission. We also extend our deepest gratitude to the SARAH volunteers, whose selfless support during evenings, weekends, and holidays is indispensable. Their compassion and availability enable us to offer continuous support and advocacy to those in need. Additionally, the staff at Survivors Hope demonstrate exceptional dedication and passion in all aspects of their work. Whether working evenings to facilitate the SARAH Circle or representing the organization at community events on weekends, their commitment is the foundation of our success. I sincerely thank every member of our team and volunteer network for their invaluable contributions to the vital work we do.

Board of Directors Chairperson

Message from the Executive Director

This past year has been a remarkable one for Survivor's Hope Crisis Centre. The dedication and perseverance shown by our entire team when faced with challenges has been truly inspiring. Their unwavering commitment in the face of adversity speaks volumes about the heart and strength behind our work.

At the core of every program, project, and event are survivors. Through trauma-informed, person-centered approaches, we continue to uplift and empower individuals, amplify the voices of youth, and demonstrate that meaningful change is not only possible, it's happening. When you lead with compassion and care, transformation follows.

Our relationships continue to grow, we've been welcomed into new schools and communities, and have built meaningful collaborations with resource centres, reflecting the wraparound support and sense of safety we strive to offer.

The gratitude I feel for being part of this work is difficult to fully express. It is an honour to stand beside such incredible human beings, our staff, crisis volunteers, and board members, each one united by a shared vision of hope and healing.

To our funders, stakeholders, supporters, and the communities we serve, thank you. Your belief in this work makes everything we do possible.

Together, we are changing lives.

A Year in Review

SARAH

Crisis & Counselling

“Offering hope and validation to those affected by sexual violence”

This year, the SARAH program expanded its reach to provide both immediate crisis intervention and ongoing support for survivors of sexualized violence. With the addition of SARAH Counsellor Nina Chufarova and five new volunteers, the crisis team enhanced its capacity to offer acute care, individual counselling, and healing groups.

New initiatives included Sarah Circle, a monthly open group designed to support anyone impacted by sexualized violence, and Project SMOKE (Sexual Misconduct Outreach Knowledge and Empowerment), which provides specialized support to individuals aged 16 and older in Manitoba who are affiliated with the Canadian Armed Forces.

The SARAH Crisis program also continued our collaboration with the Winnipeg Folk Festival by providing 24/7 wellness support throughout the duration of the festival.

SADI & Mentorship

"Preparing youth for strong, healthy and respectful relationships"

The SADI Program continued to build meaningful connections with youth across both long-standing and newly engaged regional schools and communities. This year, we saw a significant increase in referrals and workshop requests—an honour that speaks to the growing trust in our program. In response, we adapted our workshops to meet the unique needs of each group. These consistent and caring relationships have helped students feel supported and safe, empowering them to share their experiences with SADI facilitators as trusted members of their broader community.

The Mentorship Program also saw continued growth, welcoming two new schools for the second year in a row. A highlight of the year was the hosting of two Queer Straight Alliance (QSA) events, one in the winter organized by our team, and another in the spring led by Powerview-Pine Falls students and staff. The spring gathering was a powerful milestone, reflecting the strength of youth leadership and the growing sustainability of QSA groups, supported by educators, community members and most importantly, the youth themselves.

Reaching Out

"Engaging communities, empowering individuals and equipping a safer world for all"

The Reaching Out program played a key role in expanding the agency's presence and increasing public awareness of Survivor's Hope and the sexual violence support services available across the region. This year, we focused on building visibility through active participation in community events and festivals, both locally and in Winnipeg including Stonewall Quarry Days, Beausejour Rodeo & Community Garage Sale Day, Truth and Reconciliation Day, as well as various fairs, volunteer expos, social justice events, community events and wellness days.

A major milestone was hosting our 1st Annual Take Back the Night event—a public walk advocating for safety and the right to move through our communities freely, at any time of day. It was a powerful and unifying experience, bringing people together in solidarity against sexual violence.
